THREE CENTS

THIRD NAT'L CONVENTION OF LEGION OPENS AT KANSAS CITY

THREE ISSUES ENGAGE G.O.P. CONGRESSMEN

With Regular Session Less Than Five Weeks Away
Solons Speed Up

TAXATION IS FIRST
Anti-Beer Bill Next And Railroad Debt Funding
Last On Program

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—With the opening of the regular session of congress December 5, but five weeks away, Republican leaders of the senate agreed today upon a program by which they hope to dispose of:

1. Tax legislation.
2. The anti-beer bill and;
3. The railroad debt funding bill before the close of the present extra session

No special effort is to be made by them, it was stated to press for early passage of the modified foreign debt funding bill by which a committee appointed by the president would handle the $11,000,000,000 foreign indebtedness to the United States.

It probably will be permitted to go over to the regular session, if for no other reason than that the administration does not desire to have the senate involved in another controversy over the foreign indebtedness while the conference on armament and far eastern questions is getting under way, and Washington is filled with official representatives of the European nations who owe this country billions of dollars.

Senators also entertain the opinion that the foreign indebtedness question will inevitably obtrude itself upon the conference, despite any efforts to keep it in the back ground, which the administration may attempt, and the status of the bill itself may be altered materially by developments of the conference.

When the senate resumed consideration of the pending tax bill today, it was the purpose of Republican leaders to press for a final vote on it before the week end.

Mr. Rice picked the girl up and took her to the home of J. S. Elliott, Fourth-st. Dr. J. G. Smiles was called and gave the girl medical attention.

U. S. AND FRANCE WILL ALWAYS STAND TOGETHER--FOCH

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—As the two oldest republics of the world, France and the U. S. will always stand together, Marshal Foch declared here today.

Asked by the I. N. S. correspondent if he anticipated that his visit would have any far reaching moral effect in the relations of the two nations Foch said:

"France and the U. S. of America are the two oldest republics in the world. From the very beginning the relations have been cordial. Our ideals are common to the two nations, the war has cemented with new bonds the oldest established friendship. I am afraid one does not have any chance to better relations which are already as good as they possibly can be."

PRINCESS AND HEIR TO LEEDS MILLIONS LOOK JUST LIKE OTHER BRIDAL COUPLES

William B. Leeds, son of the late tin-plate king, and his bride, formerly Princess Xenia, photographed in their wedding garb immediately after the ceremony.

"A typical American bridal couple," was the remark made by American notables who attended the recent wedding of William B. Leeds, young son and heir to the fortune of the late tin-plate king, and Princess Xenia of Greece. The wedding, however, was a gorgeous affair. Jewels from King George and Queen Mary of England and from the chests of former Russian nobility were included in the presents given the couple.

WHAT'S A SLOGAN? WEBSTER SAYS IT'S A GATHERING WORD

"Slogan: The war-cry or gathering word of a Highland clan in Scotland; hence any rallying or battle cry."

That's the way Noah Webster defined the word "Slogan" some thing over a hundred years ago, and the definition still holds true.

A "gathering word" is the part of the definition that should be applied when writing a prospective slogan for Coshocton in the Slogan Contest. Many of the contestants are making the mistake of writing a detailed description of Coshocton instead of a one, two or three word slogan. No consideration will be given the slogans of that nature, according to the Coshocton Business Men's committee in charge of the contest.

Mail or bring the slogans to the Slogan Editor, in care of the Tribune.

SHERIFF EFFECTS RECOVERY OF TIRE STOLEN AT TYNDAL

Sheriff Ernest Darr was called to Tyndal Saturday afternoon to assist in the location of a stolen automobile tire.

The tire was found and the young man who stole it was caught, but at the request of the owner of the tire no arrest was made.

The stealing of the tire was the young's first offense, and the desire to give him a chance to go straight caused the tire owner to drop any charges against him.

According to the story told Monday, the young fellow started in at his first work during the war at the high wages prevailing then. He worked in the mines near his home and soon saved enough money to purchase an automobile. All went well until he was thrown out of work some time ago. His car needed a new tire and being unable to buy it, he watched his opportunity and appropriated an "extra."

TWO FINED $100 AND COSTS EACH UNDER A NEW LAW, BY MAYOR

A fine of $100 and costs each was assessed Edward Murphy and Edward (Humpty) Miller on charges of intoxication by Mayor W. S. Fish Sunday afternoon. This fine is the limit allowed by a new law which recently went into effect, according to Mayor Fish, and was put into use for the first time here Sunday.

Charges of driving an automobile while intoxicated and transporting intoxicating liquor was also placed against the two men. They pleaded not guilty to the last two charges and Thursday, November 10 was set as the date for their trial on those charges.

They were arrested Sunday afternoon in the vicinity of Clowville, where they had been driving after running into the Randles bridge, south of town, and damaging their car some. A pint bottle of liquor, over half full, was found hidden in the car.

Mayor Fish said Monday that the men would be committed to the workhouse unless the fine on the intoxication charge was paid.

treated by an osteopath who declared there were no bones broken but that the postmaster general sustained a very severe shock and his muscles were badly sprained.

"I am afraid the collision may be worse than appears just now," Hays said. "I am afraid Chief Inspector Simmons may have been badly hurt. He was being attended by a surgeon at the Manhattan transfer when I left the scene of the wreck."

"I was just dozing off when about a half mile this side of the transfer point the train gave a jolt and we heard the crashing of something ahead. I was thrown from my berth and landed rather heavily on the floor of the car. Others in berths around me were thrown to the floor. The lights in the car went out, for a moment, and then went on again. We picked ourselves up and started to ward the doors. We saw that the express had struck the rear end of a train ahead. The local train had stopped near the transfer and in the fog had not been observed by the engineer of our train."

Fifteen persons were taken to hospitals for treatment following the wreck.

BELGIUM DISPATCHES FOOD TO HUNGRY IN THE SOVIET COUNTRY

NEW YORK, Oct. 28.—One hundred thousand dollars worth of condensed milk, beans, meats, cocoa and clothing was aboard the steamship Elizabeth of the Belgian Line when it sailed October 25 with the second cargo of relief supplies for the famine sufferers of Russia. The supplies were furnished by the American Federated Russian Relief Committee, representing the Friends of Soviet Russia, the New York Volkszeitung and a large group of American workers. The Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America contributed 2,000 coats, 2,000 pairs of trousers, and some tailoring machinery. Their share in this cargo amounts to almost $50,000.

The first shipment of relief supplies sent by the American Federated Russian Relief Committee left Philadelphia on the steamship Magnus of the Susquehanna Line on October 15, bound for Petrograd.

The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union and the Furriers' Union are among the other organizations which are straining every nerve to assist the committee in collecting money and supplies for the famine sufferers. The I. L. G. W. U. at a recent conference of all the New York locals, voted a half day's pay for the relief fund, despite the slack conditions in the trade, and the Furriers' 7,000 members here—although they are just recovering from a prolonged strike, are giving their pay checks for four hours' work to their joint board for famine relief.

Lincoln Steffens is executive secretary in charge of the work of the Famine Relief Committee, with offices at 47 West Forty-second Street. The committee is co-operating with the Russian Red Cross, through which its supplies are distributed.

ETERNAL TRIANGLE INVOLVED IN DEATH OF WHEELING WOMAN

WHEELING, W. VA., Oct. 29.—After shooting Mrs. Pearl Williams, 40, a widow, who died instantly this morning, Mrs. Perry Cunkle, 37, wife of a B. & O. brakeman went to an adjoining apartment in the same building, told of her crime and sat down calmly to wait for the arrival of the police.

Mrs. Williams was ready to start for work this morning, when Mrs. Cunkle, who lives several squares away, entered her home, and fired at her twice. The second shot grazed the heart, causing instant death.

Police declare they lack a positive motive, but intimate the eternal triangle may be disclosed.

The dead woman was employed in a local department store tea room.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered
Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. These little olive-colored tablets are the result of Dr. Edwards' determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel. Let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "lasy" and "heavy." They "clear" clouded brain and "perk up" the spirits. 15c and 30c.

Just a word about the Bible reading which starts Tuesday. So much has already been said about this city wide campaign for Bible reading but perhaps we may yet enlist a few more "Chapter-A-Day" readers. Everybody and anybody is eligible to membership—there being no dues or fees. The idea is to enlist as many people as have a desire to learn more of the scriptures. Each person will read in his or her own home, a chapter of the New Testament each day. It will stimulate interest and enthusiasm to know that many other people in your town are reading each day the same thing. Better start the first of the month right by beginning with the first chapter of Matthew.

The monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y. W. C. A. will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock promptly in the Y rooms. Keep this in mind Board members, please.

Have you failed to make your reservations for the Roamer supper, Thursday evening, at 6.00 o'clock in the Young Woman's Christian Association rooms? Better do so at once, girls.

The Grace Dodge Hotel, the first model hotel exclusively for women, manned and staffed entirely by women, will open in Washington, D. C. Wednesday, October 19th. Offering twenty-four hour hotel service with many unique innovations for the comfort and convenience of guests, this seven story structure of white stone and cream colored brick has nearly four hundred rooms.

Opened under the management of the Housing Committee of the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Associations of which Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is chairman, it is to be conducted as an exclusive hotel with absolutely no rules or restrictions. It is the first contribution that the Association has made for the professional or business woman or woman of leisure who is called to Washington on legislative activities.

Special features include a booth for legislative information, including what bills are up before the house, speakers on the day's program in Congress and the House of Representatives for the convenience of the woman visitor in Washington. Mothers traveling with young children will find the special suites, outfitted with nursery accessories a big boom in comfort and convenience. No tipping will be allowed in the hotel. The entire staff has been engaged with the understanding of a definite raise of wages every six months for an extended period. It is expected to use the hotel as a training laboratory for home economics graduates who will put in six months' intensive course through the departments of the hotel.

The hotel has been luxuriously furnished by Mrs. Helen Criss of New York. The lounge, 100 by 40 feet is furnished in early English furniture, old English linens and crotonnes, with handsome accessories in deep lounges and lamps. The bedrooms throughout have painted furniture and glazed chintz. Many of the selections were made by Mrs. Rockefeller personally.

Under the direction of Miss Mary Augusta Lindsay, manager, the hotel will be entirely staffed by women, many of them college graduates. Special attention will be given to visiting conventions and conferences.

The Mayoralty Campaign

THIS week will bring to a close what has proved to be a listless and rather uninteresting mayoralty campaign. The three competitors, Messrs. Tish, Norris and Pharon, are all estimable gentlemen and each doubtless would give the city the best that is in him if entrusted with executive authority.

The office of mayor imposes a thankless task upon its incumbent. It would seem that with the passing years there is less and less interest displayed in the chief executive office in the smaller American municipalities with a correspondingly harder effort required to induce men of first rate ability to consent to stand for the office. Whether this indicates a lessened interest in local self-government or whether the rewards of private life are too alluring and its interests too absorbing for men of executive ability to give a few years of their time to the public service, we do not profess to say. But whatever the cause, it is time all of us were devoting more time to the solution of municipal problems, not as partisans, but as patriots, willing to co-operate with any group for the unselfish advancement of the town's welfare.

Naturally the issue of law enforcement is always to the fore in every mayoralty campaign. Mayors are not concerned directly with law making. It is their first duty to see that laws are obeyed. And so far as 95 percent of the population is concerned the office of mayor and the duties of the police force under him are relatively unimportant. Unfortunately there is in every municipality a small portion of the population that is bent on mischief and who give employment to mayor's courts and police forces.

Coshocton is no exception in this respect. We have here a small number of men and a smaller number of women who require constant surveillance. And while we are proud here to challenge comparison with any city in Ohio or the nation; while a crime wave of national proportions has swept over the country in recent months; it is a pleasure to record that our own community has in large measure pursued the even tenor of her ways untouched by the malady that has filled the columns of newspapers with unsavory sensations and brot to America's municipal life an unenviable distinction.

But no town has entirely escaped. We have had our own list of petty crimes. These involve the theft of automobiles, burglaries, violations of the liquor laws, gambling and similar offences and they call for an executive capable of dealing with them promptly and inexorably.

Unfortunately there is a division of public sentiment on this very issue of law enforcement. The great mass of people sincerely desire a strict interpretation of the criminal statutes and ordinances. But there is in every community a small but active element that is ever seeking a lax enforcement of these same laws. It is along this line that sentiment divides even more sharply than it does along partisan lines.

In the present mayoralty contest in Coshocton Mr. Pharon unfortunately has come to represent this latter element. He is supposed to be in favor with those who would have the liquor laws loosely administered. As a natural consequence that entire minority who are opposed to the strict enforcement of any law are said to favor his election. We are not saying here that there is any justification for such belief on the part of the semi-lawless element. We have no reason to think that Mr. Pharon would be more lenient with lawbreakers or would have less regard for the sanctity of the law than Mr. Norris or Mr. Tish. We are simply stating the fact that the element in Coshocton's municipal life that is concerned with evading rather than upholding the law is popularly credited with favoring his candidacy.

It is the hope of this paper that in the event of Mr. Pharon's election this element will come in for a wholesome disillusionment. For mayors are not elected to select certain laws which are to be enforced and others whose violation is to be winked at. The mayor's task is largely a thankless one and that man who entertains secretly in his own mind the view that as mayor he would enforce certain laws strictly and others lightly, or not at all, is essentially a lawbreaker himself and should definitely put aside all aspirations for the office of mayor.

As between Mr. Tish and Mr. Norris the majority of electors seem to be about evenly divided on the issue of law enforcement. The former admittedly has the substantial advantage of an official record that is strongly in his favor. For whatever may be said against the present mayor, he has made a fair and square attempt at enforcement of the law. He undoubtedly has made mistakes. There are many men who are entitled to an opinion who criticize the judgment he has displayed as an executive. They admit his honesty of purpose, but question his fitness for office on other grounds.

These men are largely supporting Mr. Norris. They argue, and not without reason, that he entertains just as high ideals of the law's sanctity as the present mayor and is better qualified in many other respects for a successful administration of the office. They contend that he will be less vacillating and will exercise better administrative judgment than Mr. Tish has displayed. They contend further that there will be closer co-operation between the law making and administrative departments in the event of Norris's election.

It would seem that these are the lines along which the mayoralty campaign is crystallizing. Six weeks ago it was hard to get any one to venture the opinion that Tish could be defeated. Even his enemies, and they were—and are—legion, while denouncing him, for the most part admitted that he could not be beaten at the polls. But of late there has been a decided change of sentiment. Now it is freely predicted that Norris has an equal chance. In September the political dopesters arranged the candidates in this order: Tish, Norris, Pharon. In the closing days of October the backers of both Pharon and Norris, but particularly of the latter, place their respective favorites first, with Tish running variously second and even third.

Much of this, of course, is idle speculation. But the fact cannot be denied that the labor element, upon which Tish's friends are relying, is not as unanimous in his behalf as it was two years ago. His followers, while admitting that, declare that the mayor's law enforcement record will more than make up for him in the woman and church vote all that he has lost in the factories. Firm in this belief, his intimate friends are apparently as confident as ever of his ultimate success.

Whatever the outcome it is to be hoped that every trace of feeling engendered in the campaign will be forgotten when the votes are counted and that the new mayor will assume his office with the beginning of the year backed by a united and helpful Coshocton, determined to GO FORWARD in the two years to come.

We have here already a happy and prosperous community. We have here the nucleus, the groundwork, for a much larger and more influential community if only the forces for Progress and Decency in every party and in every faction join hands and use the talents we have to make the old home town the best place in the land in which to conduct a business and rear a family.

WALT MASON

THE MOURNER

My mind had grown so galled and sore, from viewing social smashes, I started for the sackcloth store, to buy a ton of ashes. "These modern ways," I said, agitated, "are all beyond enduring, and every stand-by of the past has broken from its mooring. I do not like to kick and carp, or shed the tears in billows, but I must hang my famous harp upon the well known willows. For things have changed since I was young and lived in far Aurora, an dizzy curves are daily sprung, that capture my Angora." And, thinking of that storied town, old men I recollected, who used to wander up and down, disconsolate, dejected. Oh, that was forty years ago, and they were always saying that modern things were steeped in woe, and virtue was decaying. "And are we old boys dotard sires?" I cried, "has old age tipped us, that we intend to hang our lyres upon a eucalyptus? Have I grown like those gray-beards down who groaned in bygone seasons, and said the world was turning sour, and bored us with their reasons? I'll have to can the sob and sigh, discard the mourning border; no bolt of sackcloth shall I buy, no ashes shall I order." And then I went to Jimson's shop, where ice cold drinks are mingled, and drank three quarts of lemon pop, and through my works it tingled.

New York Day-By-Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—The Roaring Forties hears that Arnold Rothstein has quit. He has turned from the gambling tables forever to settle down in an inconspicuous but comfortable niche and surrender himself to peace and quiet. Not since the days of Dick Canfield has New York known such a plunger. He would gamble high on anything and the gamblers said he was "square." Not long ago he is reported to have stood without batting an eye while he dropped $102,000 to "Nick the Greek," a new plunger who came out of the west quoting Socrates and Plato. Rothstein neither smiled nor winced. It was the luck of the game—and he is a confirmed fatalist. He is a pale, well built Hebrew in his mid-thirties. Polished, suave, he dresses more like the conservative merchant than the man who will stake a fortune on the flip of a card. He has friends who are powerful. I have seen him at Broadway cafes dining with men whose names are known everywhere.

He is said to be quitting with several millions. Most of the big plungers shoot upward with the mighty rush of a Roman candle—and are seen no more. Coal Oil Johnny died in poverty. Bald Jack Rose, hairless, slim and supple, is now exhorting at the mourners' bench. He lives in a colorless Tenth Avenue rooming house. He used to have a choice suite at old Rector's.

Most of the big New York gamblers come from the East Side stuss joints. As boys the gambling germ gets them. Their winnings go for flashy clothes, installment diamonds and they crave classification in the steal-they-Broadstreet-of-alibises-to-be-known-as "The Gambling Kid," "Plunging Joe" and the like.

They are reared in a land of sidewalk garbage cans and perpetual washing yet when they fight their way to Broadway's glitter they have become oddly urbane and are as much at home in a dinner jacket at a smart dining place as the noblest of the bluebloods.

The other day "Monte Carlo Dan" crept to the dark shadows of Blackwell's Island. His foxlike face was lean from hunger. He twitched from drugs and when he coughed a suspicious pink foam came to his lips. At 34 he was all in. Yet seven years ago he bought out a restaurant just for the night—and the next day gave it back to the owners.

THE FINAL TEST

Editor The Tribune:

The Republican Party won the last national election chiefly upon their promise to end government "interference" with business, to decrease taxation and to enable business and industry to "get back to normal." The possibility that business, if left to itself, might not be able to get back to normal, or to get anywhere seems not to have entered into the calculations of party leaders, nor to have occurred to the majority of voters who sustained them.

The record of the Republican administration since it came into power shows that the leaders of the party have no plan for the restoring of business to normal, much less for bringing about any real adjustment of industry that will result in substantial economic progress. It is equally apparent that business leaders who have been all the while insisting that the government should get out of business and stay out, have no policy for the accomplishment of either of these purposes.

INGROWN TOE NAIL TURNS OUT ITSELF

A noted authority says that a few drops of "Outgro" upon the skin surrounding the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

its superiority over government business by coming to the rescue of the railroads, the only thing that private business could think of was to make more and more demands for federal subsidies. No method for the restoration of foreign commerce has been suggested, except that of direct or indirect federal aid.

After business leaders and financiers had been compelled to admit that there can be no industrial and business recovery without the stabilization of farm prices, and that farm prices could not be restored to normal without more liberal credit, no plan for supplying such credit was brot forward other than that of government action. And even the provision that was made for a billion dollars of credit to farmers thru the War Finance Corporation may be turned to the advantage of the bankers, to enable them to unload questionable paper, instead of being made to serve directly as a relief to actual farmers.

The like is true of the unemployment situation. Private mismanagement of industry and finance have resulted during the last year and a half in losses thru under-production amounting to nearly $50,000,000,000. As a result of the general industrial and business stagnation, over 5,000,000 workers have been thrown out of employment. Finally forced to recognize the menace in this situation, private business immediately appeals to the government to provide relief for a situation for which it is wholly responsible. But it will not frankly admit its failure and give the government a free hand. There is to be no charity. There is to be no launching of permanent public enterprises on (Continued on Page Seven)

STREET CAR SERVICE SHOULD BE FREE TO PUBLIC, WITT SAYS

SEATTLE, Oct. 31.—"Some day street car service will be as free to the public as are the streets and sidewalks now."

"A street car is a moving public highway. Charges for their use will be as obsolete in the future as toll charges on bridges and highways now are."

This sums up Peter Witt's vision of the future of street car transportation. Co-worker with former Mayor Tom Johnson in instituting municipal ownership of street railways in Cleveland, Witt is now surveying Seattle's car system at a salary of $1,000 a week with an eye to achieving economies which will make the five-cent fare possible again.

EX-SERVICE MAN IS HELD AS RADICAL; GOT VIEWS IN THE ARMY

FORTUNA, Cal., Oct. 31.—H. W. Edwards, held here on a charge of criminal syndicalism for the possession of I. W. W. literature, charges his arrest to persecution by the Pacific Lumber Company. Edwards, formerly an employ of the lumber company, had exposed some unwelcome facts concerning it, one of them being that the company pays taxes on a sworn valuation of $3,000,000 worth of property, whereas their holdings are really worth ten times that amount. The defendant is an ex-service man who got his radical views thru experiences in the army.

DENMARK HAS A NEW INSURANCE FOR SICK

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Denmark, which now has an agrarian party ministry, put into effect on October 1 the new law providing for insurance against sickness, as the latest step in her program of social insurance.

The act, as explained in the current issue of the Danish Foreign Office Journal, received at the Danish Legation here, provides that the insurance fund shall come from three sources—premiums paid by the insured, contributions from employers, legally required, and contributions from the state and from communities. Every member of the state subsidized sick club is insured up to the age of 62 years, when the old age pension is supposed to begin.

Invalidity requires a reduction of earning power to one-third or less. Smaller impairment of earning power comes under the provision of the Accident Insurance Law. A count of five persons, two of them medical experts, determines disputes as to the loss of power to earn a livelihood. Only persons of the artisan class, or of similar low economic status, are eligible to be insured.

WOULD USE RESERVES IN ANY EMERGENCY

MILWAUKEE, Oct. 31.—The Organized Reserves, which the War Department is forming on the eve of the disarmament conference in Washington, would be used in labor disputes or in any national emergency which the regular army and the national guard could not handle and which threatened the existence of the "principles of the government and the constitution," according to Lieut. Col. G. R. Greene, field artillery, U. S. A., stationed here to enroll the reserves for the next occasion which they might be used.

"Ordinarily the reserves would not be used, of course, except in case of war," said Greene. "And yet if the impending railroad strike should be prolonged for months and starvation should creep over our cities, the reserves, certainly would be called out to take a hand. They also would be called in any class or faction attempted to destroy the structure of the government."

CANADIAN VETERANS DON'T WANT BRITISH NAME FOR LEAGUE

WINDSOR, Ont., Oct. 31.—Canada's veterans of the World War form the latest group of protestants against English domination over Canadian affairs, their particular grievance resulting from the recommendations of the recent convention of the Great War Veterans' Association in Port Arthur that all soldiers' organizations in the Dominion amalgamate under the name of "The British Empire Service League."

"Such a name will make for disunity instead of unity as it will tend to separate British-born and native-born Canadians, for Canada's veterans never will be satisfied with any name that does not contain the word 'Canadian,'" Robert H. Harrison, former first vice-president of the Ontario command of the G. W. V. A. and one of the founders of that organization, says.

LYNN GALE, RADICAL, UNDER COURT FIRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Lynn A. E. Gale, convicted at Governor's Island by military court martial for draft evasion and seditious acts, was declared by his own counsel to have been "pretty nearly an agent of the Department of Justice or of the military intelligence."

The statement was made at a session of court held behind closed doors, following the reading of the confession Gale made after his capture last summer on the Mexican border. In this document Gale describes his activities in Mexico City and of his relations there with "radicals" from the United States, with members of the Industrial Workers of the World, and of his activities as publisher of "Gale's Magazine" prior to his deportation by President Obregon.

The military court denied a motion to dismiss the case on the ground it had no proper jurisdiction. Then, when State Senator Samuel A. Jones, on the witness stand, declared his belief that Gale's actions were those of a man suffering under a misapprehension and "guided by wrong advice," the president of the court, Col. John L. Bond, shut him off.

"The court does not care to hear the gentleman further," he snapped. Peter P. McElligott, Gale's civilian counsel, indicated he would attempt to show that the alleged irregularities in Gale's induction into military service were the result of enemy toward Gale by powerful politicians in Albany whom Gale had offended by his writings.

The defense showed that Gale had been declared "pre-tubercular" in an official medical report by a physician at a New York City draft board. The prosecution tried to show that this entry had been made by error, but the contention was not admitted.

POLITICS PLAYED BY BOTH DEMOCRATS AND REPUBLICANS IN W. VA.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Attorney General England of the State of West Virginia is a Republican, resident of Logan co., the stronghold of antiunion reaction. The coal operators in Logan co. support the Democratic machine. Sheriff Don Chafin calls himself a Democrat, and his deputies, all of whom are mine guards and are paid by the coal operators, likewise do the work of the Democratic organization at election time.

On the stand before Senator Kenyon's committee here England testified that he was threatened with death by one of these deputies when he spoke in Logan co. last fall, and that he was protected against his proposed assassin by the arming of his own friends. At that election a negro was shot dead by a deputy for the crime of trying to vote the Republican ticket. "This deputy," England observed, "is still performing his duty."

The Republican party in the State, which has had as a part of its platform a demand that the mine guard system be abolished, now has an overwhelming majority in both branches of the legislature. The Republican governor, who is anti-labor, made a reference to the demand in his inaugural address, but nothing further has been done about it. Meanwhile the coal operators exercise their control of the county officers and county politics through the mine guards, and perform the functions of government without the help of the voters. At the last election Chafin's deputies drove Republican voters from the polling places.

Fred Hester, former local organizer for the United Mine Workers along the Tug River and in Mingo co., who was arrested by officers of the union and charged with having embezzled some $1000 of union relief funds, was the first witness placed upon the stand by the mine operators' association in the West Virginia mine war inquiry before Senator Kenyon's committee, on Wednesday.

Hester was brought forward by Attorney Belcher of the operators' staff in order that he might testify that the money which had disappeared had, in fact, been used by him to pay for rifles which were given to members of the union. He was much embarrassed when Senator McKellar and Senator Kenyon pressed him for an explanation of his inability to remember the names of the men to whom he gave these guns, or to produce memoranda or receipts in support of his claim.

A typical mountain miner of the submissive type, Hester proved a good witness against the operators when Frank P. Walsh began to cross-examine him. He told of his long years of work in the mines, the zeal with which he had supported the union, the peaceful and lawful methods employed and the arbitrary actions of the mine superintendent and constable at Hardy, on the Kentucky side of the Tug River, in July, 1920, in ordering him from the district.

"He came to me with the constable," said the witness, "and asked me was I a union man. I said I was. Then he says, 'Well, you get out of here right off, and stay out of the county.' I knew he meant it, and when I was waiting for the first train, the next morning, this constable came along and says, 'Mind you, don't try to come back, and I told him I knew enough not to come back there.'"

McKellar and Kenyon were interested in this evidence of the authority exercised by the operators in this field. They learned that Hester had no time to pack up his household goods; he went, that day, with 40 or 50 others who had been marked as union men, at the word of command, from the boss. They knew, he explained, that if they came back, or failed to go, they would get "banged."

Ransom's Coshocton's Busiest, Best Store

Incidentally, in spite of the fact that he had since that time fled from a warrant for arrest for alleged embezzlement, had been captured and jailed, and had been finally released at the request of the operators' attorney, the witness expressed the opinion that he would be "run out" if he returned to any of the camps where he had fallen under the displeasure of the operators.

Presentation of testimony for the operators was checked by the announcement that most of their attorneys must proceed to Indianapolis to join in the arguments in Judge Anderson's court for an injunction against the United Mine Workers of America. It was agreed that they would complete their testimony next week. Meanwhile the committee would summon and hear witnesses of its own choosing.

JAP GENERAL ADMITS THAT NATIONS REGARD JAPAN SUSPICIOUSLY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Japan enters the armament and far east conference two weeks from today with a full realization that a cloud of suspicion hangs over her and it will be the consistent effort of the Nipponese delegation to so co-operate with other nations that the causes of this distrust and suspicion will be removed.

This frank acknowledgement of ex-listing distrust toward Japan was made by Maj. Gen. Tanaka and Vice Admiral Taka, chiefs of the military and naval sections of the Tokio delegation.

They spoke at the first formal function given by the Japanese embassy. Present were Washington correspondents and Japanese newspapermen. Representatives of the state department and representatives of the embassy.

"There is no use blinking at the fact," said Gen. Tanaka, "that Japan has been made the target of attack at the hands of certain foreigners claiming that it is a militarist country and that the country is under the thumb of militarists. We are prepared to do our best regarding the limitation of armaments and at the same time we shall spare no efforts in cooperation with the delegates charged with the consideration of Pacific and far eastern questions for the removal of the existing clouds of suspicion overhanging Japan."
